To All Of Those Who Have Supported Us Along The Way.

Dedication

The West Virginia University School of Medicine class of 1997 would like to dedicate this yearbook to all of those who have helped each of us succeed in our goals. Through the years our family and friends have supported and guided us on our journey. They have helped establish the next phase in our lives as physicians. Without the people around us we would not have made it through the past years of studying long hours, taking agonizing tests, and spending endless hours at the hospital.

We also have a special dedication to all of those we have lost along the way. Our class has suffered many tragedies over the last four years. We would like to take a moment to remember our loved ones and remind ourselves that their spirit and memories will last with us forever.

So to all our family and friends
Thank You from our hearts,
The Class of 1997

WASTING

I am afraid
Afraid of wasting not water, paper or energy
as I should be
But of wasting Time
A moment, a second, an instant of beauty
lost forever

I crave it
Motion, passion, the golden hue in the sky
of the setting Sun
Always one more sunset

I am running as fast as I can arms outstretched
Scratched, torn by the branches
I bleed, yet I try to run faster
I am afraid of forgetting I am alive
Alive
For a moment, a second, an instant of beauty
I am afraid of wasting my time.

Sunshine and Rain

The days were filled with sunshine,
 The cloudless skies were blue;
 The weather seemed so perfect,
 No sign of rain in view.
 But then I looked around me,
 And all was desert sand;
 The earth was parched and arid,
 A dry and worthless land.

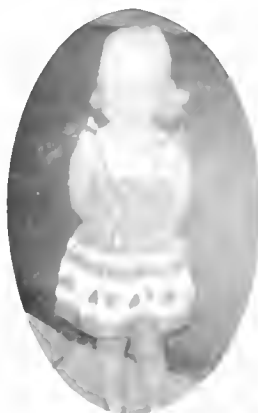

If life had only sunshine,
 No stormy days or rain;
 If everything were perfect,
 No struggles and no pain;
 It soon would be a desert.
 So let us not complain;
 The hard things make us stronger,
 And growth comes with the rain.

Eugene L. Clark

Life's Lessons

AMC After a while you learn the subtle difference between holding a
 and and chaining a soul.
 And you learn that love doesn't mean leaning and company
 doesn't mean security.
 And you begin to learn that kisses
 aren't contracts and presents
 aren't promises.
 And you begin to accept your defeats with your head up and your eyes open, with the grace of an adult, not the grief of a child,
 And you learn to build all your roads on today because tomorrow's ground is too uncertain
 for plans.
 After a while you learn that even sunshine burns if you get too much.
 So plant your own garden and decorate your own soul, instead of waiting for someone to bring you flowers.
 And you learn that you really can endure . . . that you really are strong,
 And you really do have worth.

Life In Charleston . . .

Charleston Area Medical Center

Sometimes it seems like a lifetime ago, and sometimes it seems like just yesterday . . . our first day of medical school. The excitement, the anxiety, the fear- we could change the world if we could just make it through the day without crying or throwing up. And now we are on the verge of graduating, of becoming physicians, and attaining the goal that seemed lightyears away on that first day of medical school.

We've learned a lot in the last four years, and not all of it was about medicine. We shared the happy things in life- marriage, having children, an evening with friends- and we cried for one another when a loved one was lost. It has been a privilege and a pleasure to spend the last four years with the Charleston Class of 1997.

In closing, I would like to share a few "little bits of wisdom" from a book my grandmother gave me. "So many gentle friends are near Whom one can scarcely see, I should never feel alone Wherever I may be." I wish you the best of luck in your future endeavors.

To the Class of 1997:

Thank you for allowing me the opportunity to represent you during the last several years, it has truly been a pleasure. I am extremely proud of our class and its impact upon the WVU School of Medicine. Thanks to the faculty and administration many of our suggestions have been applied to upcoming curricular changes. It is my firm belief that these changes will ensure a bright future for the institution. In addition to the many curriculum changes we were able to enact, we were also able to leave a gift of $600.00 to the Health Sciences Center library. These funds will be utilized to help improve communications between the libraries of both the Charleston and Morgantown divisions of the School of Medicine.

I cannot conclude my comments without expressing sincere appreciation for how our class has supported one another in times of trouble. During our four years at WVU, the class has had to endure many personal tragedies from illness to the death of loved ones. Through it all you have acted as a team, putting the group above individual ambitions. I am certain we will continue such team concepts into our future practices.

Michelle, Zachary, and I wish each of you the best in all your future endeavors. Our prayers are with you and may God's blessing grant you happiness and success everywhere you go.

Thanks,

Thanks to our advisor Dr. C. Robert Craig, program director.

The MD/PhD Medical Scientist Program offers the combined degree to approximately two students each year. The program, which usually requires seven years of study, is designed to prepare students for careers that combine the practice and teaching of clinical medicine with the laboratory investigation of mechanisms of disease. During the first two years, students take the traditional basic science courses of medical school as well as maintaining active exposure and participation in the various departmental research projects. Students then enter the PhD research phase for three years. After the writing and successful defense of the dissertation, the student completes the MD clinical phase of their training.

The Panel Shown Depicts Hippocrates (460-370 BC). He Was The Original Patient Advocate, Admonishing "Primum Non Nocere," (First, Do No Harm). Below, Aristotle Compares The Bony Structures Of Different Animals. He First Proposed The Idea Of Species-Fixed Sets In Nature That Would Reproduce True Lineage.

For Five Hundred Years, The Work Of Benvenutus Grassus Stood As The Sentinel Work On Ophthalmology. He Studied The Structures Of The Eye As Well As Its Diseases. Here, He Examines The Eye Of A Patient. The Lower Panel Depicts A Deaconess In A Medieval Hospital Caring For A Patient. For Centuries Nursing Was A Charitable Venture, Carried Out Primarily By Women Of Means, But Without Any Training. Today, Nurses Train In Basic And Clinical Sciences.

Andrea Vesalius (1514-1564) Wrote The First Anatomy Book Based On Human Dissection. The Illustrated Text Refuted Much Of Galen's Teachings Which Were Based On Dissection Of Animals.

William Harvery (1578-1657) Studied Blood And Its Movement Through The Vessels And Heart. Without The Aid Of The Microscope He Postulated The Existence Of Capillaries - Later Proven By Malpighi. Steven Hales (1677-1761) Was A Brilliant British Plant Physiologist Who Was Also Interested In Pressure Exerted By Blood. He Measured Blood Pressure By Cannulating The Veins Of Various Animals With A Graduated Glass Tube.

About The Pylons

For Over 40 Years, The Pylons That Grace The Entrance Of The Medical Center In Morgantown Have Served As A Most Unique Symbol Of Medical Education At West Virginia University. Therefore, It Is Most Fitting That Our Yearbook Derives Its Title From These Structures. The Word "Pylon" Comes From A Greek Root Meaning "Gateway", And Through The Pylons Have Passed Generations Of Students Dedicated To The Pursuit Of Knowledge And The Quest To Help Others.

Created By Milton Horn, The Pylons Were Commissioned In 1954 And Completed Two Years Later. They Stand As A Tribute To The Development Of The "Healing Arts", Celebrating Accomplishments

The Top Of This Panel Comes From Exodus 0:25: "And Thou Shalt Make It An Oil Of Holy Ointment, An Ointment Compound After The Art Of The Apothecary . . ." The Mortar And Pestle To This May Evoke The Pharmacist. The Lower Portion, Too, Comes From The Bible, Leviticus Taught The Laws Of Sanitation, Personal Hygiene, And Food Preparation.

Pierre Fauchard (1678-1761) Was No Mere Barber Who Pulled Teeth As A Sideline. He Founded Modern Dentistry, Concerning Himself With The Scientific Study Of Oral Diseases As Well As Preventive Care. Below, We See Another Frenchman, Louis Pasteur (1822-1895). He Inoculates The Brain Of A Dog With Rabies Virus. Pasteur Successfully Developed An Attenuated Strain That He Used In 1885 To Treat A Young Boy Badly Bitten By A Rabid Dog. The Child Survived.

War Has Always Afforded Physicians The Opportunity To Study Human Anatomy And Physiology. William Beaumont (1785-1853) Was Stationed At Fort Mackinack, MI In 1822. His Patient, Alexis St. Martin, Suffered A Gunshot Wound Which Healed Into A Gastrocutaneous Fistula. Beaumont Supported St. Martin And His Family For The Next Eight Years In Exchange For Studying The Digestive Process Through His Patient's Wound. The Lower Portion Of The Panel Commemorates Wilhelm Roentgen's Discovery Of X-Rays In 1825. Roentgen Received The First Nobel Prize In Physics For His Work.

Ephraim McDowell (1771-1830) Staged A Miraculous Surgery In 1809 When He Diagnosed And Removed A Large Ovarian Tumor From A Mrs Jane Todd Crawford, Without The Benefit Of Anesthesia Or Antiseptic. The Patient Lived At Least Another Ten Years According To Records.

In Medicine, Nursing, Pharmacy, And Dentistry Through The Ages. The Plaster Studies Were Donated By The Sculptor To The Charleston Campus In 1982 In Memory Of His Late Wife, Estelle, Who Played A Great Role In The Research And Production Of The Statues.

Mr. Horn Has Stated, "At Times One Panel Symbolizes Events That Occurred A Century Or More Apart. Yet There Is Unity In Each Panel And In All Of Them Together". He Concludes That The Images Are Meant To Create For The Students Of West Virginia University An Awareness Of Our "Wholeness" With The Medical Community Of The Past, Present, And Future.

The White Coat Ceremony:

Provost Jerry Lang, MSII Michael Keen, and Dean D'Alessandri

On April 11, 1997, The WVU School of Medicine Office of Alumni Affairs held the second annual White Coat Ceremony. Members of the Class of 1999 were granted white coats, symbolically referred to as the cloak of compassion. This ceremony symbolizes the transition from the classroom to the clinic and the white coat is a tangible reminder to students of the responsibilities of their chosen profession.

Christian Medical And Dental Society

West Virginia University Chapter

The Christian Medical & Dental Society (CMDS) is a national organization of physicians and dentists who share the common bond of love for our Lord. In addition to its professional members, CMDS also has a student chapter on most health professional school campuses across the country. Here at WVU, our chapter had an exciting year in 1996-97. We had weekly meetings on Tuesday at noon, with pizza available for lunch. Attendance at our meetings was well rounded with faculty physicians, dentists, residents, nurses, and students from the schools of medicine, dentistry, pharmacy, physical therapy, and nursing. Our Tuesday meetings usually include a speaker, a Bible study, or a discussion of ethical issues involving the Christian physician or dentist.

Our meetings are open to all health professionals and students who would like to join us in a time of fellowship.

A special thanks to Dr. Moss, our faculty advisor, and all the other faculty who support us! We appreciate you!

In the upcoming 1997-98 school year, our meeting will be held every Wednesday at noon. We hope to see you there.

Riverside Elementary School Project

A student sits patiently as Joe Baisden checks her ears.

A cooperative effort between the Department of Community Medicine and Introduction to Clinical Medicine, the trip to Riverside Elementary School has become a yearly event. Members of the Class of '99 visited the school and performed blood pressure, vision, and fitness screening on the children as well as provided programs in topics such as wellness, accident prevention, and the medical profession. The children in turn give the second year students their first encounter with the world of pediatrics. It's hard to tell who has more fun at this event, the medical students or the Riverside students.

WVSMA - Medical Student Section

Students at a WVSMA-MSS Executive Council Meeting

The West Virginia State Medical Association Medical Student Section is dedicated to affecting medical policy making at the level of state and national conventions of the AMA, and also to community service throughout the state. The section is comprised of chapters at WVU, WVU-Charleston, Marshall, and the WV School of Osteopathic Medicine.

AMSA

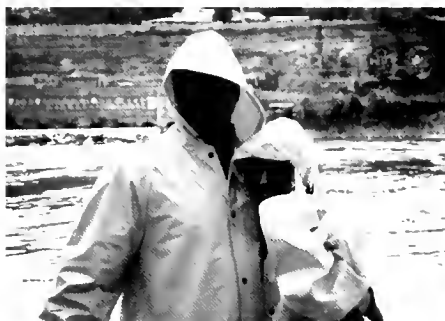

The American Medical Students' Association is an organization that provides the medical school and community with various services. During the '96-'97 school year, AMSA provided a work force for Habitat for Humanity and had several members attend the National Convention in Orlando, FL. Plans for next year include improved health services in the WVU student housing. Officers this year were: President; Brad Bellot, Vice-President; Michelle Prigge, Secretary; Sheryl Anthos, and Treasurer; Brian Dixon.

The Oath Of Hippocrates

I Swear by Apollo the Physician, by Aesculapius, Hygieia, and Panacea, and by all I hold most sacred that according to my ability and judgment I will keep this oath and this stipulation: That I will be loyal to the profession of medicine, and just and generous to its members. That I will lead my life and practice my art in uprightness and honor. That into whatsoever home I shall enter, it shall be for the good of the sick and the well to the utmost of my power, and that I will hold myself aloof from wrong and corruption and from tempting to vice. That I will exercise my art solely for the care of my patients and the prevention of disease, and will give no drugs and perform no operation for a criminal purpose and far less suggest such a thing. That whatsoever I shall see or hear of the lives of men which is not fitting to be spoken, I will keep inviolably secret. While I continue to keep this oath inviolate may it be granted unto me to enjoy life and the practice of the art, respected by all men in all times. But, should I trespass and violate this oath, may the reverse be my lot.

The Pete Dye Golf Club is a two hundred and thirty five acre course, nestled in scenic North Central West Virginia designed by the world's foremost golf architect, Pete Dye.

Wide fairways and landing areas, unobstructed green approaches with adequate bail out areas and manicured grasses around the greens are but some of the features to expect when challenging this layout.

After experiencing the Pete Dye Golf Course, the golfer is sure to leave with a heightened sense of the integration of the game with the environment, a stronger sense of competitive spirit and a feeling of tranquility only to be matched by "another round."

To the students of West Virginia University School of Medicine:

To gain insights into your profession not offered by any lab, lecture or library, join the members of organized medicine. They are now determining a range of tough medical issues -- issues that will directly affect the course of your career.

At every level of organized medicine, the door is open for your involvement. Help determine how America will resolve such crucial issues as health system reform, access to care, HIV testing, RBRVS, physician-assisted suicide, domestic violence and other public health concerns.

And let your voice be heard on the issues that will impact the remainder of your medical training -- financing graduate medical education, sexual harassment policies, reasonable work hour policies and six-week maternity leave for residents.

When you join the West Virginia State Medical Association (WVSMA), you will automatically become a member of the American Medical Association (AMA). The WVSMA will subsidize an AMA membership for you. For more information regarding membership, call the WVSMA office at (304) 925-0342 or (800) 257-4747 and ask for Donna C. Webb, membership coordinator, or talk with your WVSMA-MSS campus officers.

To help guide and guard the profession which you are now entering, join your county, state and national medical societies today.
